

A group of white egrets are captured in various poses against a clear blue sky. Some are in flight with wings spread, while others are perched on the dark green, needle-like foliage of a tree or shrub at the bottom of the frame. The birds have long necks and sharp beaks, and their white feathers contrast sharply with the blue background.